REEF Field Surveys are a great way to take a dive vacation that counts! These trips feature daily fish identification reviews and an opportunity to learn more about the natural environment you are diving in. If you want to learn how to identify fish and the role you can play in helping preserve our marine life heritage, there is no better way than learning from the man who wrote the books, world-renowned author and photographer Paul Humann. After three dives each day, Paul will be teaching fish identification and how to easily conduct REEF fish surveys during your dives.

Diving and Lodging Information: Utila is the smallest of the three Bay Islands off the coast of Honduras. The extensive reefs of Utila provide for an exciting and varied experience with over 70 buoyed sites around the island to choose from. Dive sites range from the awe-inspiring sheer walls that drop to over 3000ft to shallow fringing reefs that start at 5 ft and drop down to 100 feet. While we won't be there during whale shark "season", there is always a chance we will see one of these magnificent creatures. Unlimited shore diving is also available from the resort beach. Steve Fox, owner of Deep Blue, will be our host and is an avid fishwatcher. This is a great destination. Visit www.deepblueutila.com for more details.
